

PLEASE HELP ME WITH WEDDING INVITATIONS

My name is James. My grandparents adopted many children and now they have many grandchildren and great grandchildren.

Part of my family was taken into captivity by the enemies of my country and their many great grandchildren have been left fatherless and motherless.

Sadly, even among those who have survived there are divisions in the family, so that the grandparents and fathers are not even speaking to the children and the children are not speaking to their ancestors.

It is hard to believe that all this tragedy could happen to a single family. But it is true.

I am the one of the few left in my family that even seems to care about all these children. There are over five thousand of them. I know this number seems huge. It may even be larger.

I would like to help unite my family by having a wedding feast because the one person in the family they all seem to care about is getting married, but I can't afford the invitations by myself. The couple has asked me to help them. But I have no money. And I don't know who to turn to for help. I know God will help. But I feel Him asking me to ask others for help.

Would you please find it in your heart to help me with this project? The couple is very beautiful and this wedding could be the one thing that could reunite the whole family. I know this is true. God would richly bless you if you would help. I know it!

Thank you for your kind consideration! James, the Wedding Planner

This message is a parable about the church

Those who were invited to the wedding feast have not been attending. The churches are all dwindling in attendance.

Meantime, those who are young in faith or don't know the Lord are estranged from the institutional churches. They want nothing to do with them. The churches have been scandalous and offensive to them. The hatred is strong towards these ill-hearted fathers.

Therefore I am going out into the highways and the byways to invite anyone who would be a child in the faith to a personal and genuine relationship with the real Jesus and know Him as Christ. The wedding will take place very soon. Time is very short.

Would you please help me with this mission?

Thank you for your kind consideration! James, the Wedding Planner
